

To Missoula, with love

a postcard show

What do you have to share with Missoula, Montana?

In an effort to cultivate a broader dialogue within our community, FrontierSpace announces an open call for artists. To Missoula, with love: a postcard show will open August 5th, 2011. Artists working in any medium are eligible to apply; the only stipulations being that the work must be “original,” fit the United States Post Office’s definition of a “postcard” (visit usps.gov for more information), and be sent to the gallery from outside of Missoula County.

Mail postcards to: FrontierSpace
PO Box 9441
Missoula, MT 59807

Entries must be received by Saturday, July 30th. There is no fee to enter, aside from the cost of a stamp. Submissions will not be returned. Email questions to frontierspace@gmail.com, being sure to include “postcard show” in the subject line.

*

Missoula, Montana is a city in Western Montana with a population of roughly 70,000 generally genial folks. For more information on the city of Missoula, visit missoulacvb.org.

Founded by two University of Montana graduate students in the fall of 2010, FrontierSpace is a gallery of visual art located in Missoula, Montana. FrontierSpace exists as an independent organization focused on the exhibition of emerging artists who contribute to the arts community of Missoula through challenging and provoking creative work. FrontierSpace is committed to acting as a conduit of visual culture, channeling artists and ideas into Missoula, from around the country. For more about FrontierSpace, visit frontierspace.wordpress.com.